Celebrating Twentieth Anniversary

To celebrate 20 years of business in the same town is a record that few businessmen in the business communities are able to achieve and keep their standing through all the bad times as well as good and come out with a record of straight dealing and the respect of the whole community.

This is the fine record of Mr. A. G. Studer, who is now celebrating his twenty years of business life in Didsbury by a big sale.

Mr. Studer first opened his place of business in the old building now used as a boarding house, near the south end livery barn in 1902, and was one of the very first business men to settle in the town. For some years it was a struggle to make both ends meet because conditions at that time were very crude; there was very little money in the country as most of the settlers were homesteaders and there was scarcely any market for their produce, consequently a great many had to be helped over the rough spots for some years with a great deal of credit. However, Mr. Studer by his strict attention to business and his upright dealing made an enviable record for himself and customers as far east as Ghost Pine and Trochu, as well as from all the other points of the compass, came to do business with him. Some years later a partnership was formed between himself and Mr. John Liesemer and the store was run under the name of Liesemer and Studer until 1906. Then the big fire on New Year's day in 1911, wiped out his splendid large business premises which stood on the corner on the site now occupied by the Royal Bank. This big loss did not discourage him and he immediately went to work and built more commodious premises on his present location and today has one of the finest general stores in the province to any town in Alberta. His many friends will wish him a long continuance of his business career in Didsbury.

LOCALS RECEIVE ANOTHER WALLOP

The second league hockey game of the season took place on the local ice on Friday night last and the Didsbury aggregation took a defeat to the tune of 5-1 from Oils.

The game was faster than the score would indicate, especially in the second period which was regulated without a score.

Oils won the game by good team work and the locals were handicapped by being short two or three of their best players who were away. Harold Clemens in goal for the locals saved them a much worse defeat by his clean work.

NOTICE TO OUR ADVERTISERS

We wish to thank all our advertisers for the very liberal patronage that was extended to us during the year 1921 and hope that you may still continue to favor us with your business through the coming year. We wish you everything that is good for you and hope that you may avoid all that is bad for you.

We have one request to make, and that is please get your copy for changes of advertising into our office not later than Tuesday morning of each week. Unfortunately we have had to miss some mails for a few months back because this copy was not handed in to us in time to get out the paper and we have had several several complaints from our subscribers for this reason.—The Editors.

Irish Peace Treaty Approved by Dail

DeValera Says Fight Must Go On, But The Irish People Seem Well Satisfied.

DUBLIN, Jan. 9.—By a majority of 7 votes, 64 to 57, the Dail Eireann gave its approval Saturday evening to the documents signed by its delegates at London.

The news was received with the greatest enthusiasm and the party, not devoid of emotion and waited for hours outside the University building in anticipation of a decision, burst into cheering, even before the official figures were announced.

Ratification of the treaty came after a day of intense excitement and heated controversy. Though the result was as had been expected, the majority in favor of the agreement was greater than had been counted on to the last minute.

De Valera Broke Down

A tense, strained silence prevailed while the vote was being taken and a gasp of relief went up from the supporters of the treaty when the result was announced. A dramatic scene ensued when De Valera stood up in broken voice which vibrated with emotion, declared that "the republic must be carried on."

On the announcement of the figures, Mr. De Valera immediately rose and declared that "the Irish people had established a republic and until the Irish people, in a regular manner, disestablished the republic, it constitutionally went on. This would be a sovereign body in the nation, to which the nation looked for supreme government. It was the executive until the people disestablished it."

No Spirit of Triumph

Michael Collins, in quiet tones, followed Mr. De Valera. He said he did not regard the result in any spirit of triumph. He claimed that the men representing the Dail who would be responsible for taking over from the British government control of the Irish administration, should get a fair chance. In every country what mattered most was public order and he appealed to the other side to appoint a joint committee of both sides to carry on the government. This was greeted with cheers.

DE VALERA WILL NOT GIVE UP REPUBLIC

Mr. De Valera said he had worked hard to get help from every source to find a solution of the problem to reconcile the two peoples, consistent with the desire of the Irish people to maintain a distinct nationality and sovereign statehood. That had been turned down, he declared, and therefore, the fight was to go on.

"The republic of Ireland," Mr. De Valera declared, "still exists. Its sovereign parliament still exists. The resolution commending the approval of a certain treaty is no ratification of that treaty and is not a final act. That will not be effected until the Irish people have disestablished the republic which they set up by their own will. As far as human brains and hearts can achieve it, the self-determination of the Irish people will be fought and by the men and women of Ireland in this generation. They are not going to give up now."

Mr. Valera and his supporters then went into private session in the Mansion House.

The split in the Dail has been heightened and intensified by the vote on the treaty and the future was never more obscure. At different hours yesterday the two factions held conference at the Mansion House. The Dail will meet again today in public session.

It has become apparent that Eamon de Valera's resignation as "president of the republic" did not take an official form and the outstanding question last night was whether he will make effective his expressed intention to resign, and if he does what will become of the Dail. Many believe that the opponents of the treaty plan to keep the Dail from meeting in being while the supporters of the treaty endeavor to establish a provisional government and carry out the terms of the peace agreement.

WHAT IRELAND GETS

The new regime for Ireland has now been approved both by the British parliament and the Dail creation of the Irish Free State as provided for in the treaty signed last month in London. The provisions in substance are: Ireland shall have the same constitutional status in the British Empire as the Dominion of Canada, the Commonwealth of Australia, the Dominion of New Zealand and the Union of South Africa.

Ireland shall be known officially as the Irish Free State, with a parliament having powers for the government of the country, and as executive responsible to that parliament.

A provisional government is to be set up to function until an Irish Free State shall be constituted, but no longer than 12 months at the outside.

The treaty stipulates that a representative of the Crown shall be appointed for Ireland in the same manner as the governor-general of Canada.

Who Sanctioned It

Formal ratification of the pact on the part of Ireland, it is provided by the treaty, shall be at a meeting summoned for the purpose of the members elected under the government of Ireland act to sit in the House of Commons of Southern Ireland. These members with a few exceptions are the same as those at the Dail Eireann.

The British parliament approved of the treaty last December 16th by adopting the reply to the proposal from the throne requesting such approval. Various formalities of formal ratification, however, still remain to be completed with in order to conform to the terms of the document.

Ireland is given control over all governmental affairs and is entitled to an army which shall, however, not be larger in proportion to Ireland's population than the British army is to the population of Great Britain.

"Oh, yes, I'll be chipped in, or course. But I didn't just say to sell the farm yet. I just have to get back an' strategize things up some more. You see, I thought you'd get my letter before you left, an' you know I'd make your deal then, an' your payment would hold the bargain bound until I could sell the place. But, Mr. Harris was beginning to address himself mainly to the older man.

"Don't take me up wrong," said Allan. "I'm in on this along with you. If he's in, an' if he's out, I'm out. But I was just kind of curious about it."

"It's all right," said Harris. "I assured Riles, with great magnanimity, inwardly he was cursing Gardner for having left this task to him. He was suspicious of a trap in the simplest question, and feared that any minute he might find himself bound up in a mesh of contradictions.

"Where is this coal mine, and who's got it?" said Harris.

"I don't say it myself," admitted Riles. "They're awful plucky about letting people see it," he continued, with a sudden flash of inspiration. "It's a valuable find, I know."

"Prill, somebody'll bring it home in their pocket, I suppose," said Allan.

Riles pretended to laugh heartily.

"That where is it?" insisted Harris. "Is there a railroad near, or how do you get at it?"

"It's up in the mountains, an' that's all I can tell you, but it's all right, an' there's a pile of money in it. I guess I better bring Gardner down in the morning, an' he'll explain all about it. You see, he knows the fellow, an' owns it. I don't, an' he'll be able to tell you. That is, if you're able to sit it. Gardner won't say much

Could Not Eat

Constipation is caused by a torpid condition of the liver. Doubling with salts, castor oil, etc., to move the bowels, cannot afford more than temporary relief.

If you are to rid yourself of this ailment and the scores of annoying symptoms and diseases which come in its wake, it is necessary to get the liver right by such treatment as is suggested in this letter:

Mrs. Alvin Richards, R. R. No. 1, Seely's Bay, Ont., writes:

"For two years I was afflicted with indigestion, and in the morning when I got up my breath was bad. I had a poor appetite, and just felt like eating certain foods. I used many different medicines as a laxative without benefit, and the doctor's medicine did not help up at all. Finally I used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and found them better than anything I had ever tried. I can highly recommend them to anyone troubled with constipation or kidney trouble."

unless he knows you're goin' in on it." Well he'll have to say a good deal before he knows," said Harris. "I ain't buyin' a pig in a poke. He's got to show me, and then if it's all right, why, it's all right."

"Oh, it's all right," said Riles, although inwardly he felt little enthusiasm over the attitude of either father or son. He was annoyed that Allan should be present. On the whole, it would be better to let the rest of the explaining to Gardner.

"What d'ye think of it, Dad?" said Allan, when Riles was gone. "Maybe all right," said Harris. "Wouldn't be surprised but it is. At the same time, I ain't goin' to put a cent in it till I'm dead sure. And anyway, there's no use lettin' Riles think we're leechin' on it."

That's what I think. You think Gardner's all square in it?"

"I don't know. Likely he's getting a fat commission from somewhere, but that's fair enough, if he makes the deal. But he won't see any of our money till I have the opinion of the best lawyer in town."

"That seems safe. Allan agreed. "Just the same, I think the loss of chances to use our money to advantage here than down in Manitoba, don't you?"

Yes, I think there is. You see, this is a new country, and everybody's out here. Think of all the money we could make in Manitoba in the early days if we had the money and knew how to put it. But out here they've got the benefit of our experience, an' they'll do as much here in five years as we could do in five. We had to make the money to develop our country—had to make it right at home. But now we can make it right out here, the money's rollin' in from outside."

"What d'ye say if we sell the old farm anyway, an' then if this mine business don't look good, we'll plunk back in the old place."

"Might be worse," his father agreed. "We'll have a look round for a day or two."

The next morning they began a round of the real estate offices. Great crowds gathered every where, and dealers seemed to have hardly time to draw their attention. In one little office, where they mentioned they might be on the market for say a couple of thousand acres.

"That'll fix you up all right," said the proprietor, "and there's one sure thing, you can't put your money anywhere where it's safer or it'll grow faster. Why—"

At that moment a man in a pepper-and-salt suit went by the door.

"Scuse me a minute," said the dealer, rushing to the door and sending a slight whistle down the street. The man in the pepper-and-salt suit turned, and the dealer beckoned him into the little office.

"You know that five-thousand-acre block you bought last week," he said in a few words, but loud enough to be heard by the Harrises. "Bought it at six dollars, didn't you? Well, I can give you seven today, for a quick sale."

"Couldn't think of it, my dear fellow," protested the lucky buyer. "I simply couldn't think of it."

"Couldn't think of making five thousand dollars in a week? It don't look too bad to a working man like me."

"But it's nowhere near the value of the land. Why, they're selling stuff in Illinois to-day that ain't to be compared with it at a hundred and fifty dollars an acre. It's only a question of time until this is as much. You've got better land here, and better climate, and you're a thousand miles nearer the Pacific Ocean, that's going to carry the commerce of the future. Seven dollars! It's an insult to Canada to mention such a price?"

"Well, say," continued the real estate man, in a still more confidential tone, "I was allowing myself a little margin on the deal, seven dollars and seven dollars. But I had a man in here a few minutes ago that'll buy that block at eighty-five. I'll pay you eight dollars net to put it through."

"Sorry, but he'll have to get down deeper than that if he wants it. Tell him I might consider ten dollars, but mind, I ain't making any promise."

And the man in the pepper-and-salt suit continued his course down the street, just the same as if he were not making five thousand dollars a week. "Big capitalist from New York, that fellow," explained the dealer. "Simply eating money up here, and always eating it into more land."

The incident left a deep impression on the Harrises. They did not know, of course, that the man in the pepper-and-salt suit always went by the door when likely-looking strangers were in, and that he always refused a profit of ten thousand dollars as a matter of little consequence except for its influence on the unexpecting party of the third part.

CHAPTER XV.

The Lure of Easy Money

In the afternoon Gardner and Riles drove into town and met the Harrises in the waiting room of the hotel. Gardner's attitude was friendly, but not over-familiar, as became a man who had recently formed some reflection on his character. He shook Harris and Allan by the hand, inquired after the crops, and the crops, but discreetly avoided family matters. Having learned from Riles that all had been going smoothly in their domain, he turned to the Harrises. "Gardner knew a little room at the back of the bar, to which he escorted his guests. He had ordered a bottle and glasses on the table, he turned the key in the door.

"You can't be too careful," he explained. "You know the walls have ears, and if it gets out that this coal mine can be picked up at the price we have on it, it will be taken before night. I understand your money is not here yet, Mr. Harris?"

"No. Not started, I guess. The fact is, I haven't sold the farm."

"Well, I don't want to hurry you, but we've got to not quickly, or not at all. Of course, we don't figure on taking any chances. Our idea is to turn the property over at once, at a good profit. That's the way you see about it too, isn't it?"

"I'm not a coal miner."

"Exactly. Neither are the men who own most of the mines of this country. There comes a time, Mr. Harris, when we realize that we don't have to get down with pick and shovel to make ourselves some money—in fact, the man with pick and shovel has had time to make any real money. I am glad you feel like I do about it, for I have already taken the liberty of putting the proposition up to a New York syndicate."

"You mean if we don't come through, they will?"

"No, I mean that we'll come through—and they'll come after us. My idea is not to take any chances, but to sell the property, or as good as sell it, before we buy it. So I sent a Government report on it to this syndicate, an' I heard they were looking out for coal lands in the West, and I just took the liberty of offering it to them for a cool quarter of a million, and gave them until tonight to accept or refuse, by wire. I'm a little anxious for an answer, although if they don't take it, others will. You see, the old fellow that owns it simply hasn't any idea what it's worth. He has lived in the hills until he looks like one of 'em, and a safehold of money in real bills is about all he has. He's a cheapskate, wouldn't he? The purpose he'd be suspicious of, and he's come down to investigate, and we're come down to crimp our deal."

"But what is your plan for the deal, Mr. Gardner?" asked Harris. "We can't go into the mountains with a load of bills and buy a mine like a man might buy a steer. There'll have to be papers, titles and such things. I suppose, to make it right with us and with the Government."

"Of course," Gardner agreed. "We will take the money with us, but we won't give it to him until we get the papers. We'll just let him see it—stubble it a little, if you like—and then we'll lead him into town with it, like you lead a horse with oats. The sight of so much money will keep him coming our way when nothing else would. And we'll slip him a hundred or two, and get a little receipt for it, just to prevent his changing his mind if he should be so disposed."

"And suppose I don't like the look of the mine when I see it?"

"Then you bring your money back down with you and put it into farm lands, or anything else that takes your fancy. After you look it over, if you don't want to go in on it, Mr. Harris, perhaps Riles and I can rub ourselves to saving the deal, but you see we thought of you from the first, and we will stay with our original plan until you have a chance to decide one way or another."

"Well, that sounds fair," said Allan, and his father nodded. "But we haven't sold the farm, and until we do I guess there isn't much money in sight."

"Bradshaw'll sell the farm quick enough if I send him word," his father assured him. "He won't get it all in money, but he'll get a good part of it, and he has ways of raising the balance so long as the security is good. I've half a mind to wire him to close or out."

"I'll be right with you," said Harris. "I'll be right with you."

"I'll be right with you," said Harris. "I'll be right with you."

Harris reached out eagerly for the telegram, while Allan, his arm thrown over his father's shoulder, read it in boyish excitement.

"If investigation confirms Government reports we will pay two hundred and fifty thousand. Our representative leaves at once for personal interview."

He declared the effect of civilization on the Eskimo was appalling, their health and stamina breaking down completely. The chief cause of their physical deterioration is the introduction of civilized foods, white flour being particularly disastrous in its effects.

Valuable Clay In Alberta
Suitable for Manufacturing Brick and Tile Drain

The story of a pronounced disability disclosing itself as a valuable asset comes from the Smoky River country along the line of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia railway. Engineers of the road had considerable trouble in maintaining the approach to the crossing of the river owing to the continual sliding of the clays of which the banks are composed. Now it appears after examination that these clays, of which there is an enormous quantity, are valuable for the manufacture of brick and tile, and may in time give birth to an industry, the traffic of which should compensate the railroad for some of the trouble it has experienced.

Wrap of Black Duvetyn And Hudson Seal

By Marie Belmont

A coat which can adapt itself to varied occasions is a very desirable one to possess. This versatility of use finds expression here in black duvetyn trimmed in Hudson seal. The wrap is built on loose lines, this effect being carried out in the single button fastening and the dropped shoulder seams. The chin collar is becoming and gives additional warmth. The finishing band of fur at the neckline is attractive for a person of sufficient height, but should be avoided by one of very short stature. This coat is attractive over afternoon frocks of black or color, and can also be used for evening wear.

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and, if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall, because these worms are of the book variety that cling to and feed upon the interior surfaces. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety, but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

Your attention is drawn to the advertisement of the Metal Shingle & Siding Co., Ltd., appearing in another column of this issue. Farmers and others will do well to take advantage of their exceptional offer.

Worms cause fretfulness and rob the infant of sleep, the great horror. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will clear the stomach and intestines and restore healthfulness.

There are 5,000 living animals of 1,000 species located in the New York Zoological Garden and more are added yearly.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a Little "Freezone" on an aching corn. Instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right out with your fingers. Your druggist sells a few cents of "Freezone" for a hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the ointment, without soreness or irritation.

Cuticura Is Just Right For Baby's Tender Skin

Bathe him with Cuticura Soap and warm water. Dry gently and apply a thin coat of red cream ointment. Irritation or rash is prevented. About one-half ounce of Cuticura is enough for a baby. It is sold in a few grains of the fragrant, delicate soap and a hard cosmetic cream.

The Priceless Image
A short-sighted old lady went into a large curio shop. After gazing about for some time she asked the assistant: "How much is that Japanese idol worth—the one near the door?"
"It is worth a great deal," replied the assistant. "It's the proprietor."

"Will your 'Good Morning' last all day?"

Easy to start from the breakfast table with zest and enthusiasm, but how easy is it to keep on? Does ambition lag, or lag as the day develops?

The afternoon "slump" is a factor to be counted upon, in business or social life.

Usually, there's a reason.

Nerves whipped by tea or coffee won't keep on running, and they won't stand constant whipping.

Many a man or woman who has wished the afternoon would be as bright as the morning has simply been wishing that the nerves wouldn't have to pay the natural penalty for being whipped with the caffeine drug.

Postum gives a breakfast cup of comfort and cheer, without any penalties afterward. There's no "letting down" from Postum—no midday drowsiness to make up for midnight wakefulness; no headaches; no nervous indigestion; no increase of blood pressure.

Think it over. There's full satisfaction in Postum—a cup of comfort for anybody (the children included), any time.

You can get Postum from your grocer or your waiter today, and probably you'll begin to have better tomorrow, as so many thousands have laid, who have made the change from tea and coffee to Postum.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tin) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes. Sold by all grocers.

CURLING PHILOSOPHY

Inside the chabroom at the rink
Are benches in a row,
Where fellows sit to watch the games
While wreaths of smoke they blow;
And if you really want to learn
The fine points of the play,
Don't shoot your rocks, just stay in side.
And listen what they say.

So light your pipe and take a seat
Where it is warm and nice,
Where better games are always curled

Then out upon the ice,
For soon you'll hear: "He's narrow,
sure

He's coming down too hard.
No, No—"Don't sweep that, let it go,
He's going to get the guard."

"Say! Watch that guy, the twists he makes
In his deliveries—
He'll tie himself into a knot
If he should draw the tee
He's wide—he's slow—oh, let it hog;
He never got the brush.
There's no excuse to him that shot,
He sure had lots of room."

"Now what's he playing that shot for?

What can he be about?
He ought to have a runnin' shot
And take that rock right out!
He'll never get it with that fee—
Well! look at what he struck.
He got it after all, but then
He had a lot of luck."

But when these men are called to play

These curlers skilled and wise,
They make the very same mistakes
As those they criticize.
They find it takes but little skill
To dissipate advice.

And play a scientific game
When they are off the ice.

So as we pass along life's way,
And as we hear men talk
We're always smiling when we throw
The other fellow's rock.

This disposition is not strange,
Through life it's much the same,
We're always wisest when we skip
The other fellow's game.

—Province, Innisfail.

SEARCH FOR CHEAP POWER

In a recent article the progress of oil as a fuel in this country, and at the expense of coal, was to some extent described. It is, of course, difficult, if not impossible, to oust coal altogether. Even in countries where enormous quantities of oil are produced, such as the United States and Mexico, the coal produced in those countries plays an important role.

How far coal will succeed in its fight against oil fuel in the United Kingdom is practically a matter for the coal industry itself. "The supreme industrial search of today is for cheap power," declared Sir John Cadman, President of the Institution of Mining Engineers, recently. Coal power today is wastefully obtained in this country; and it remains in its present advantageous position mainly because this country produces very large quantities of coal, and practically none at all of the rival fuel—oil.

Long ago it was recognized that the burning of coal in its native condition in grates and under boilers was a wasteful process. One of the first steps towards reform was the treatment of the raw material, so that coal gas is obtained along with tar and other valuable products. Scientists state that even this is not enough, and that if coal is going to remain a cheap source of power in this country it must be treated so as to obtain many more products, from petrol of motor spirit at one end to heavy fuel oil at the other. Of recent years, and especially since the war, some attempt at this object has been made in the United Kingdom. There are several processes with more or less attractive claims; but, though there are exceptions, it would seem that certain people who advocate some of these have as yet few tangible results to show. One or two genuine enterprises there are, and doubtless they will in due time achieve a fair measure of success.

Abroad things are rather different. The scientists of Germany, now freed from the burden of discovering new war materials, including poison gas, have returned with a view to the work of industrial chemistry. Although Germany is a poor country in coal compared with the United Kingdom, and it's so-called "brown coal" is far inferior to the average product of our collieries, German science in the economic utilization of coal left us far behind years before the war, and has made great strides since the Armistice. A few particulars as to what is being done may prove of interest to British readers.

In certain inner circles of the coal industry, both continental and English, a great deal has been heard of late concerning what is called the Bergin process. The name is adapted from that of the inventor, Dr. Friedrich Bergin, and most of what is generally known about it generally is contained in a paper read by him at Stuttgart in the latter part of May this year. As will be seen however, from what appears below, there have been later developments. The friends of this process claim on behalf of the inventor that he can take practically any coal and by means of temperature, pressure, and the addition of hydrogen, can obtain in the final result motor fuel, lubricating oils, kerosene oil, paraffin wax, and other valuable products. This is accomplished, in particular, by the application of pressures truly enormous for an industrial plant. They range between 100 and 200 atmospheres. In the small plant hitherto used it is admitted that they brew a great strain both on the materials of the plant and on the staff themselves.

TORONTO, Jan. 9.—Joseph Oliver, grand son of the Independent Order of Oddfellows of America, former mayor of Toronto, and prominent lumber merchant, died here today after an illness of three months. His death had been expected for several days. Mr. Oliver was in his 70th year. Miss Oliver survives, also two sons, J. O. and W. F. Oliver, and two daughters, Mrs. Dr. Hipwell and Miss Oliver, of this city.

France Remains Firm On Broad Plans For Submarine Building

Washington.—Efforts to limit the naval strength of the powers in submarines and auxiliary warships came to an abrupt end after they had drawn the French and British arms conference delegates into a plain spoken exchange over the possibilities of a future war between France and the British empire.

The French, acting under renewed instructions from their Government, told the conference naval committee, with an air of finality, that France must remain free to build a submarine fleet nearly three times as great as that she now possesses and to construct, in addition, cruisers, destroyers and other auxiliary craft up to a tonnage of 330,000 tons.

To the proposal the Japanese, Italian and United States delegates replied with expressions of surprise and regret, while the British charged openly that such a building programme must be regarded as a menace to British shores. Right Hon. Arthur J. Balfour added that he had no doubt, if occasion arose, Great Britain would be able to do it, but only if she reserved complete freedom of action as to the construction of all types of auxiliaries which might be useful against underwater warfare.

Agreeing that further agreement would be useless, the committee turned its attention to collateral subjects, including regulations for future use of submarines, proposals for limitation of the size and armament of individual auxiliary vessels and details of the agreement already sealed in principle regarding capital ships.

Improve Conditions On the Farm

Nothing More Worthy of Men of Science and Education, Clifford Sifton Says

Toronto.—Addressing a session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Sir Clifford Sifton emphasized particularly the necessity for improving conditions of life on the farm. "So important did the former minister of the interior consider this that he declared:

"Nothing is more worthy of the attention of the men of science and education than the amelioration of the conditions of the average farmer and his family by inventions and appliances which will facilitate as far as possible the performance of the ordinary work of the farm, and which will improve the productivity of the soil.

"Without going into further details I would put as the very first requirement in the development of natural resources, recognition of the fact that the most important resource is agriculture and the improvement of conditions upon the farm to the end that the exodus from the farm may be stopped and farming operations rendered more easy and comfortable," continued Sir Clifford Sifton, amid applause.

"I am quite certain that the movement from the farm to the city is largely due to the revolt of the farmer's wife and family against the slavish labor which they have to do and this revolt in my judgment is amply justified by the conditions. When it is said that the interests of the country require the promotion of a movement to get people to go back to the farm the answer is that what is wanted is not propaganda but something that will render life upon the farm more tolerable.

"It is not for nothing that the farmer has gone into politics. The basic industry of this country is crying out for help and the help that is required is not subsidies and not spoon-feeding, but action which will place the work of the farm upon a better and more comfortable, and more remunerative basis. The successful carrying on of the farms of Canada depends on the domestic work in the farmer's kitchen and barnyard."

Use Unemployed As Night Guards

Plan Suggested for Philadelphia May Check Thiefs

Philadelphia.—A plan to use 4,000 unemployed in the city as night watchmen, their wages to be paid by the contribution of 15 cents weekly by each family in the territory they are to guard, has been suggested to the Unemployment Committee by Major J. Hampton Moore. The plan, it was said, has the endorsement of police department officials.

The watchmen would not be in uniform and this fact, the Major said, would have the effect of decreasing automobile thefts, burglaries and handiwork of all sorts.

British Golfers to Tour Canada. Chicago.—James H. Taylor, five times open golf champion of Great Britain, and Alex. Reid, who held the British title in 1907, will make a tour of Canada and the United States next summer, it was announced here. The veterans will compete in the United States open golf championship at the Skokie Club, Chicago.

The Reparation Question

Hamburg.—The efforts of Germany during 1921 to fulfil her peace obligations have failed, and it is idle to think that any political or economic efforts will now succeed unless these conditions are modified, declared the annual report of the Hamburg chamber of commerce. "Those who still believe the London ultimatum can be carried out," says the report, "either are without judgment or do not desire fulfillment but the destruction of Germany, which in time would rest on France, England and America."

A Scene of Splendor

Calcutta.—Amid scenes of splendor and the presence of enthusiastic crowds the Prince of Wales opened the Victorian Memorial, dedicated to the Queen-Empress Victoria, whose memory is held in the highest esteem throughout India. The building is in the form of a vast marble palace and is of rare architectural beauty. It required 15 years to erect it. The building comprises a museum, commemorated to India's glory. It contains portraits of the old emperors of Delhi and of famous men who labored for India during the Victorian era. The ceremony was carried out in full state.

Friendship Increasing Powers On Close

Crown Prince of Japan Is Pleased With Results of Conference

Tokio.—Crown Prince Hirohito, the recent, personally reading the speech from the throne at the opening of the Diet, expressed gratification in noting the increasing friendship of the Japanese Government with the different treaty powers, and that the Washington conference was approaching a successful conclusion.

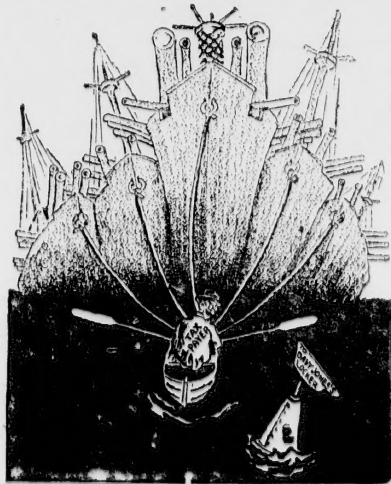

The report exhorted the co-operation of the Japanese people in the promotion of national prosperity and of lasting peace in view of the added responsibility of the nation with respect to other nations. The session of the Diet was brief and formal.

May Oppose Harding's Shipping Plan

Washington.—President Harding's shipbuilding plan, though not fully worked out, will be ready to offer to Congress soon after the holidays. It will provide for a heavy expenditure in direct subsidies. Intense opposition to it is already developing in Congress and it is generally regarded as doubtful whether it can be forced through even under administration pressure. Agricultural interests are lining up against it.

Situation in Egypt Improving

London.—Official reports received from Cairo stated that the situation in Lower Egypt was approaching normal, that all officials had returned to their offices and that only the schools remained closed. There were small disturbances in Alexandria, but Cairo, the canal zone and the hinterland were quiet, indicating, according to official circles here, that the worst of the disturbances have ended.

British Government Has Gone The Limit On Irish Question

Discuss Farm Problems

Prof. Bracken Also Pays Tribute to Early Investigators of the Country

Winnipeg.—Agricultural experts from many parts of the Dominion and the United States gathered here for the second annual convention of the Western Canadian Society of Agronomy.

Addressing the delegates, Prof. John Bracken, president of the Manitoba Agricultural College, paid a tribute to the men who had led the way in the matter of research and experiment. When the history of agriculture in Western Canada was written, he said, the early investigators in agronomy would be complimented on the standpoint of soil management and crop production. On the other hand, they might be criticized for not having conserved the soil in the way that might be expected, and it was the fact that they had not done so that constituted the problem before agronomists today. Methods had to be devised for solving that problem before it was too late.

Prof. Manley Chapin, of the University of Saskatchewan, read a lengthy paper on "Field Tests with Pulver Substitutes," in which he said the University of Saskatchewan in 1921 would undertake a project to determine the effect of various field substitutes in the production of wheat outlined about as follows:

Oats, barley and wheat in double rows, 36 inches apart, and in triple rows, 30 inches apart; corn, potatoes and sunflowers in single rows, 42 inches apart, and sudan grass in double rows, 45 inches apart.

M. J. Thimble, Scott, Sask., gave a paper on "Practical Rotations for the Prairie Farmer." Because of the one-crop system farmers were as a class, financially embarrassed. Adoption of rotations on the farms would distribute labor more evenly throughout the summer and provide winter employment, he said.

Rush For Gold Claims

Activity Greatest Since the Opening Up of Northern Manitoba as Mineral Belt

The Port, Man.—Snow staking of mining claims on the new Elbow Lake gold camp, north of here, is the latest activity since the opening up of Northern Manitoba as a mineral belt. The action of the Hollinger Mine of Porcupine in taking an option on the Murray Brothers' claims has caused every prospector in the district to head for the new camps.

Sales of claims are numerous, and the price has advanced from $500 to $1,000. One small group of claims, seven miles from the Hollinger property has been sold by a local man for $5,000 cash, and a banker here was handed $2,700 for one claim and the sale of another for $2,000 quite a distance from the Murray claims. Most of this money comes from Montreal and Toronto interests.

Wary of Winter, Suspect Surrenders. Winnipeg.—Wary of the vigorous northern climate and expressing a deep longing to be back under southern skies, William B. Shelley, wanted for theft at Oakland, Cal., walked into the police station here and gave himself up. He was remanded for one week in order that the Oakland police may be communicated with.

Campaign to Check Reckless Driving. Hamilton, Ont.—That next spring the department of public works would start a campaign to check reckless driving and prevent irresponsible drivers from operating cars throughout the province, was the announcement of Hon. P. C. Bagnall, who addressed the Kiwanis Club here.

Plan Help For Russia. Rome.—The Italian Red Cross is to establish eighteen food and medical depots in the famine area of Southern Russia, under an agreement signed here by the president of the organization, and M. Vorovsky, Soviet representative. The government has contributed 6,000,000 lire for the work.

London.—A statement from Prime Minister Lloyd George was issued here to the effect that the Government has gone the utmost limit in the Irish agreement and that it was impossible to reopen the discussions.

The delay in ratification in Ireland, the statement said, was holding up the working of the cabinet committee appointed to arrange the evacuation of the British forces in Ireland, settle the terms of the amnesty and transfer executive responsibility to the Irish provisional government.

Following is the text of Lloyd George's statement:

"No British statesmen could go further than we have gone; no British statesmen could consider any proposal involving Ireland being out of the empire.

"The treaty places Ireland on an equality with the other states of the empire and gives Ireland the same claim to membership in the League of Nations and every right that Canada has in law, fact and constitutional practice; and not merely rejection, but alteration even of the treaty would render it null and void. This would indeed be deplorable in the interests of both countries.

"The British Government has gone their utmost limit in the treaty and to reopen the discussion which was closed only after the most exhaustive consideration of every point, would be a fruitless proceeding and is impossible.

France Wants Strong Fleet

Submarine Is Defended As Essential Weapon of Defence and for Military Purposes Only

Paris.—France's determination to hasten conference, were vigorously to the limitation efforts of the Washington conference, were vigorously voiced in the Senate during a discussion of the marine section of the government's budget.

Senator de Kerguelen defended the submarine as an essential weapon of defense, but wished it to be confined to military uses instead of being applied to torpedoing commerce. "At the Washington conference," he said, "we were surprised to see the French delegation demand 320,000 tons of capital ships when France does not intend to carry war into foreign waters. France desires no imperialism, but if we found Admiral de Bon's proposal strange, there are, nevertheless, limitations which we cannot accept."

Cannibalism In Russia

Russians Eat Dead Bodies In Famine Stricken Areas

Riga.—The first official report of cannibalism in the famine districts of Russia has been made to the All-Russian Soviet congress by Delegate Ovsienko, of Samara, according to a dispatch to the official Rosta News Agency, dated Moscow.

"At Rostovskoye the parish people are eating the bodies of their dead," Ovsienko told the congress.

"It is dangerous to have the famine victims in the presence of the people and guards must be kept over them until they are in a state that makes eating impossible."

The remarks said the children are being taken to the Steppes and left there to die; that mothers, maddened by their experiences, cut the throats of their babies.

At the beginning of January, continued Ovsienko, the doctors with all their outside aid, will be able to feed only half the starving children and only one-twentieth of the adults. The rest of the people would have to die while waiting help.

Veteran Arrested In Ottawa. Ottawa.—Wm. H. Coulter, the veteran who walked all the way from Vancouver to Ottawa to lay some grievances as to his treatment while overseas before the Government, appeared in police court charged with disorderly conduct on the public street. Magistrate Askwild permitted him to depart on suspended sentence.

AROUND THE TOWN

Mr. Walter Durrer received a telegram on Monday morning stating that his mother had died suddenly on Sunday, aged 88 years, at her home in Formosa, Ontario.

Several curlers from Didsbury are attending the Olds bospital. Whether they will bring home the bacon is problematical as yet.

A runaway took place on Monday on Railway Ave. The team took exception to two of the gasoline stations on the street and partly demolished them.

Bill Farrington has given up the Opera house. Bill intends visiting the old country before long. It is eleven years ago since he came to this country.

RUGBY

Mr. A. Covitz gave a very enjoyable evening lately at which the district was well represented, the occasion being in honor of his daughter, Mrs. Taylor.

A number of young people journeyed to Olds to attend the Alumni meeting of the O.S.A.

Miss Short, of Edmonton, was a visitor with Miss M. Hughes over the week end.

The C. U. C. held its weekly meeting at the home of the Messes. Worthing on the floor of the school had been operated upon. The evening was spent in games, cards and singing. The President proved too much of a crib player for the rest. So many events occurring during the Christmas season, the C. U. C. thought it advisable to cancel the meetings until after the New Year.

May we suggest a masquerade in the near future, eh, Harriettan.

Bob White entertained a party of young people on Friday last, at his new home in Elkton. Several young ladies requested the receipt for bread and it is rumored, Bob was the artist. Bob did all in his power to give us a jake-a-bon time. Thanks Robert, try it again.

Merle looked very sad. If it's the heart, call for the lady.

Irish Peace Treaty Approved.

ratification by the Dail, will be the withdrawal of the British forces from Ireland.

Ulster is included within the scope of the treaty, but provision is made for her to declare herself out within one month after an act of the British parliament ratifying the treaty and to continue under the present regime, as provided in the government of Ireland act of 1920. In that case, however, a boundary commission is to be named to determine the boundary between Ulster and the rest of Ireland.
